A Whole New Landscape

"Searching for a new challenge in late 2017 we moved north and bought an old farmhouse in western France, inland from La Rochelle.

'A Whole New Landscape' is a response to a part of France new and fascinating to me, La France Authentique, far from the tourist hoards, a place of quiet landscapes and spectacular skies. A place passed-by by modern life; deer-filled woods and fields of billowing wheat and gently swaying sunflowers.

The landscape may have changed but the approach remains the same. Drawings made on morning walks, transformed into paintings on wood or canvas back in the studio. Still life's garnered from the garden; figs, chestnuts, fresh hens' eggs, jugs full of daffodils. The palette remains the same too but with added yellow, complementing the Prussian blue, ochre, sap green, alizarin crimson, scarlet lake and titanium white.

I've spent just over a year looking at and drawing this landscape. These new paintings are the result of that looking and drawing."
